Hotels and Restaurants Filled in Advance; Betting Favors Harvard

Ideal football weather was promised by the weather man for tomorrow, with the temperature around 40 and no rain in sight. There is a possibility, however, that the sky may be overcast. The official forecast today was:

"Fair tonight and probably tomorrow; rising temperature, moderate southwest to south winds."

The Harvard-Yale football invasion, the most tremendous pilgrimage to Boston in years, began today. Thousands of enthusiasts from all parts of the country flocked into the city for tomorrow's big game.

By train and motor, Harvard and Yale alumni, with their relatives and friends, poured through the various portals of the Hub, filling the hotels to capacity and spreading out into the suburbs.

Harvard ruled the favorite in the betting, with odds of 10 to 8 and 1 to 2 being offered and given, although a large part of the wagers were laid at even money.

A bet of $100 in $100 on Harvard was registered on the curb, but the majority of betting men in the

WORCESTER STRIKE

RIO! FOUR HURT
Worcester, Nov. 21.—Four men were hurt, one of them seriously, in a riot between striking butchers and strikebreakers at the packing plant of the Walco, Peewee & Dexter Company on Franklin street today.

About thirty of the striking employees went to the packing plant at noon and, according to the strikebreakers, started a quarrel. Breaks and stones were soon hurled between the two factions.

A riot, said to have been instigated by the Worcester police, but when they arrived the strikers had scattered and no arrests were made. An investigation is under way.

The four injured are Philip Cignetti, Emil Lewis and Percy Colver, strikebreakers, and Charles Vitale, a bystander, who was watching the battle. All received cuts and bruises on face and body. It is said Vitale's condition is serious.

The butchers have been on strike at the plant for three weeks.

DOROTHY DEACON SEEKS MARRIAGE ANNULMENT

Princess Radziwill (Dorothy Deacon) at right and Mrs. William F. McComb (Dorothy Williams) at left, both of whom have applied to the Vatican for annulment of their marriages.

BARS TAKING STOLEN AUTOS OUT OF STATE

Automobile owners welcome the new Federal law now in force penalizing those found guilty of transferring stolen automobiles from one State to another. The maximum penalty is five years in a Federal penitentiary. The law, information of which was received today by United States Attorney Thomas J. Boynton, also stipulates that a receiver of such stolen property will be held equally responsible in the eyes of the law.

The Princess Radziwill, formerly Dorothy Deacon of Boston, has applied to the Vatican for the annulment of her marriage to the Polish "czar".

Another American woman has applied to the Vatican for the annulment of her marriage. Mrs. Dorothy Williams, nee McComb of New York, wife of William F. McComb, former chairman of the National Democratic Committee.

Princess Radziwill is the daughter of the late Duke of Devon and this city and Paris, and one of the two of famous Deacon sisters who at one time were international belles.

'COULDN'T GET DRUNK' AFTER OL ON 2.75

U. S. Attorney Says a Man Would Be Unable to Drink Enough to Be Intoxicated

Washington, Nov. 21.—The government admits that 2.75 per cent. beer is not intoxicating.

Assistant Attorney-General Ericson, appearing before the Supreme Court this afternoon in answer to a question from Justice Clarke declared, "a man cannot drink this beer in such quantities as to intoxicate, and we admit."

The Assistant Attorney-General argued, however, that the law to limit the volume of alcohol in beer was passed to conserve foodstuffs and its validity does not depend on the fact whether the beverage is intoxicating.

The suit for beer—the poor man's beverage—was waged today by former Senator John Root of New York. As counsel for Jacob Ruppert & Co. of New York, brewers, Root argued against the constitutionality of the Volstead act which makes 2.75 per cent. beer illegal.

"The courts must exercise their judicial power to prevent encroachments on the rights of the people," Root declared, "and it is for the courts to act when Congress uses powers which it does not constitutionally possess."

In view of the unrest and disturbances among the people, it is now imperative that the courts protect the rights of the people.

Beer Ban in St. Louis Lifted by Injunction

Order of Federal Judge
St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 21.—United States District Judge Pollock today sanctioned the lifting of the lid on beer in St. Louis.

In a decision in the suit of St. Louis brewers, Judge Pollock granted a temporary restraining order enjoining United States District Attorney Henry C. Fisher from enforcing the provisions of the Volstead act.

The order is restricted from prosecuting alleged violators of the measure and Moore is charged with the duty of issuing revenue stamps for beer containing one-half of one per cent. or more of alcohol. The order is operative at once.

Al Jolson Gives $100 to Xmas Dinner Basket Fund

Al Jolson, star of "Sinbad," now playing at the Boston Opera House, has contributed $100 to the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund to buy free dinners for needy families of Greater Boston. This popular comedian never fails to send a good-sized donation to one of the Hearst papers for the basket fund. Wherever he happens to be just prior to Yuletide he sends a check.

In a letter accompanying the gift—Mr. Jolson said: "As a night singer of the Middle Ages, I have been privileged to entertain toward me 100,000,000 of the people of the world. I am proud to contribute to the fund for the needy."

Michael Spud Tires of His Name; Wants to Be a Spencer

What's in a name? A whole lot of attention and sensation, according to Michael Spud.

He prefers Sub-Patrick Spencer, and in a petition filed in the Suffolk County Probate Court today asked permission to assume the latter.

Spud informed the court that his name occasioned unpleasant remarks owing to the peculiar sense of humor possessed by the ordinary person. He further declared that Spud was a positive detriment in his business and social relations.

Lydia Porter Trussell of Broadway street, also asked that he be permitted to change his first name to Stanley, on the ground that his small frequently arrived addressed to "Miss Lydia Porter Trussell." He said that Lytle was a lady's name, and not fitted for a gentleman.

WILSON PLANS NEW BATTLE FOR TREATY

President Will Confer at White House With Democratic Senators

By International News Service.
Washington, Nov. 21.—President Wilson has not given up the treaty fight. This was indicated today when it was announced at the White House there would be constant conferences there with the Democratic Senators, relative to the treaty situation.

Senator Underwood held a long conference today with Secretary Tumulty and gave him much valuable information for the guidance of the President in his preparations for a new fight for the life of the treaty. When Dr. Grayson permits, the Democratic senators will confer with the President himself.

It was announced that the President was devoting all of the time allowed him by his physicians to preparing his next message to Congress and that this message would

U. S. INCENSED OVER JENKINS AFFAIR

By International News Service

Washington, Nov. 21.—Armed intervention in Mexico on a scale calculated to pacify that country completely may be resorted to by the United States unless the government's demand for the immediate release of United States Consular Agent William O. Jenkins is granted, according to information obtained from the State Department here today.

The sharp note sent to Mexico yesterday, properly speaking, was not an ultimatum, but unless the Mexican government replies to it within a reasonable time, it was stated, the military forces of the United States might be brought to bear, not only to effect the agent's release but to get matters generally right in the neighboring republic.

The United States government expressed itself as "incensed" by the action of the Mexican authorities, and the latter have been informed that unless Jenkins is allowed to go free the relations between the two countries "would be seriously affected."

According to a high source here today, if the United States should be forced to intervene in Mexico at all time to set Mexico's house in order.

New York, Nov. 21.—Herbert Thornton, a Brooklyn merchant, was arrested today, charged with profiteering in sugar. Thornton was alleged to have sold 100 pounds of sugar at 18 cents a pound.

WORCESTER PRISONER ENDS LIFE

Worcester, Nov. 21.—John F. Williams, 23, a prisoner at the Summer street jail, committed suicide by hanging today. Williams used the bedclothing in his cell to form a noose, with one end fastened to the top of the cell door.

which the Boston American is collecting for Christmas. Like pleasure in sending my check for one hundred dollars."

James M. Prendergast's name has been added to the $1000 of contributors. The previous sent $25. In a letter he says that he would like to see the fund grow faster. "I am sending you $25 more to add to what I have already sent to help put through your very worthy project."

More power and good luck to the fund which the U. S. S. Swasey took up a collection of $22.46 and sent it to the basket fund.

This is one of the newest destroyers at the Navy Yard," says the letter which came with the money. "and, as we are leaving here for the Pacific Coast on Monday the 24th, we are sending this contribution as our Christmas gift. The crew consists principally of New England men, and they praise the worthy cause for which you devote so much of your valuable energy."

"Trusting that the fund for this year will be more successful than in the previous years, we are—"

The Jordan Marsh Company sent a contribution of $25.

MESSINGER BOY GIVES $1.

A one-armed messenger boy came to the American office and gave one dollar. He was asked his name and said, "Never mind my name, but my name is not a bad one, and I am sorry I'm not a rich man, but I give a little bit."

What a fine spirit this boy showed! The great novelist Dickens would have enjoyed knowing him.

The Rev. Father John W. McMahon, permanent pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Charlestown, donated $10 to the fund, following the lead of Cardinal O'Connell, who gave $25.

Attorney John J. Murphy sent a check for $5 and wrote: "Enclosed please find my $5. It is certainly a small gift, but I hope it will be of some use to the fund. I am a lawyer and I am sure that the fund will be successful in its efforts to help the children of the Christmas Basket Fund."

Kenneth E. MacDonald contributed $10 and wrote: "Enclosed please find my $10. I am a student and I am sure that the fund will be successful in its efforts to help the children of the Christmas Basket Fund."

Little helper at Christmas."

GIVE ALL THEY CAN.

What a fine sentiment is contained in the one-line note written by a young woman who sent $10. "Enclosed please find my $10. I am a student and I am sure that the fund will be successful in its efforts to help the children of the Christmas Basket Fund."

Another girl who sent $10 wrote: "Enclosed please find my $10. I am a student and I am sure that the fund will be successful in its efforts to help the children of the Christmas Basket Fund."

A bright woman who evidently has been having her troubles with a rent profiteer enclosed the following rhyme:

"Here I give for Children's Christmas. I'll not say by whom it's sent. If my landlord knew I gave it he'd be sure to take the rent. In the full I would have sent it to the fund. I would have sent it to the fund. I would have sent it to the fund."

TASTY RECIPES FOR TURKEY COME IN

Cooks in Prize Contest Tell Best Way to Prepare Thanksgiving Bird

Letters have already begun to pour in from New England cooks, in answer to the prize contest announced by the American, for the best recipe for cooking the Thanksgiving turkey. Don't be modest, housewives! If grandmother's burnished bird used to have with pride in her own special chestnut dressing, or if mother had a particular giblet gravy that would bring down the house, tell us about it!

If you know how to roast an old bird until he is as tender as a squab, share your recipe and win a prize for your own Thanksgiving turkey.

Here are some of the best recipes submitted:

TO MAKE IT TENDER.

Remove giblets, cleanse bird inside and out, turn hot water over turkey to remove pinfeathers easily.

Dressing—State loaf of bread, moistened with milk and water, three onions chopped fine, butter size of small egg. Add seasoning, salt to taste. Stuff, blind legs and wings and place in pan.

Make stiff paste of flour and water, cover top and sides of bird about half inch thick. Turn over and bake under this covering and makes toughest turkey tender. Dress must be hot. Lift off covering of paste when bird is nearly cooked and allow it to brown. Allow about three hours to cook a twelve-pound turkey.

For gravy put heart, liver and gizzard on to boil in about one quart of water until tender, remove and chop fine. Add this water to drippings in roasting pan (after turkey has been removed), thicken with flour, season with salt and pepper, and add the chopped meat.

MRS. G. S. MORSE, 5 Spaulding street, Dorchester.

AN EASY METHOD.

Select a ten to twelve-pound plump turkey. To make dressing take one-half cup of soft butter, chop fine and saute with butter. Take one-half pint of milk, add to water and drain four ounces of pork sausage meat, two eggs, salt, pepper and sage to taste. Mix all ingredients well together.

Stuff turkey, sew up and tie legs and wings to the body. Take melted butter and pour over entire turkey and dress with

Wasserman License Not Revoked; Error in Names

The American avard Wednesday in stating that the auto license of Jacob Wasserman of the City of Boston Election Commissioner was not revoked and that he was fined for reckless driving. The error was due to the carelessness of a reporter and to a similarity in names. Mr. Wasserman, the Election Commissioner, was not arrested, was not fined in a Framingham court, and his license was not revoked. The American hastens to correct the erroneous statement which appeared in its columns, and to make amends as far as possible.

YOUNG ASSERTS 'L' WILL NEED $15,700,000

State Must Provide Much of This Fund in Next 4 Years, He Adds

The Boston Elevated will need $15,700,000 new capital in the next four years to develop the service, and the State, "under its obligation to provide good service for the people," will have to pay into the bonds to be issued, Representative R. Loring Young declared at the hearing before the Street

Railways Committee of the Legislature today. "You will say that is a step toward public ownership," said Representative Young. "But it is a money step. The State, having control of the property, is under obligation to provide good service and the State should take bonds the best security, not come ahead of the $25,000,000 of outstanding capital stock."

The purchase by the State of the Cambridge subway would be a substantial contribution to that direction because it would provide $3,500,000 needed for improvement of the service.

WOULD Wipe OUT DEFICIT.
Representative Young, who was a member of the Special Committee on Street Railways and who is one of the Republican leaders of the House, said that the $3,500,000 deficit paid by the State and income saved by the elevated stands out as an imposing obstacle against an immediate reduction in fares.

"That deficit will have to be made up by the car riders, under the present law," he said. "I personally believe that it ought to be wiped off the books. With this done, and the other measures of relief adopted, I find myself agreeing with Mr. Ingersoll that a reduction in at least a 5-cent fare would come."

Representative Young said that the car riders should be relieved of the subway rental burden of $1,000,000 a year, which now falls on their shoulders alone.

"The question is," he said, "to what extent should a community aid in the maintenance of a street railway that is vital to its prosperity?"

BRIDGES ON PUBLIC.
"In the past, we have placed the entire burden upon the car rider. He pays, in addition to the cost of transportation, the cost of paying the streets, the taxes and the subway rental."

"Yet the benefit from the subways and the elevated structures is not derived exclusively by the man who uses the car. If all the elevated stations were upon the streets of Boston, as pedestrians, in autos and in street cars, traffic would almost cease to be possible."

"It is unjust to charge the car rider for the cost of the underground structure that makes traffic free on the streets for all others. Real estate is benefited by transportation and would pay its share of the burden. The increase that would be made in the tax rates of any of the municipalities served by the elevated would be more than offset by the advantages which the communities would derive from the lower fares and improvement of service."

LITTLE ENGLISH DANGER IN LOVE WITH U. S.

May Thompson, "Angel Face" Player, Gets Mixed Up with Traffic Rules

May Thompson, the little singing and dancing ingenue in "Angel Face," the George W. Lederer production of the Victor Herbert musical comedy, coming to the Colonial Monday, is very English in her mannerisms. But it is not affectation. She is English.

Coming to this country in her early "teens" with the Martin Glick, the dancing act which created a furore in vaudeville circles several years ago, she afterwards joined "the Golden of Liberty" in Chicago, was prominent in the support of Richard Davis in "99 in the Shade" and more latterly leading ingenue in "You're in Love."

ONE OF THE REASONS WHY 'ANGEL FACE' IS HEAVENLY

She vows that she has no wish to "ever return to 'dear old London,'" and insists that she is now thoroughly American. It is hard for her, however, to accustom herself to many of the customs. Traffic gives her the most trouble, for it seems that she cannot adjust herself to the way they drive here.

In England it is the rule for vehicles to travel on the left side of the street and here on the right side, so that every time she wanted to cross the street she invariably looked the wrong way and had to make narrow escapes that she was finally forced to carry a chaparron with her who, of course, was called "Awty" and knew her place. At the same time she was an awful bother, you know, and so fearfully expensive."

D. A. R. RAPS RENAMING OF STREETS TO MAYOR

Mayor Andrew J. Peters has been advised that Hon. Mr. St. Charles, daughter of the American Revolution, objects to the changing of the names of streets in squares in honor of various heroes of the world war, claiming that such action would destroy landmarks of history. 50 CARLOADS OF WALTHAM COAL ARE SEIZED

Was Consigned to Factories Who Report No Acute Shortage as Result

Fifty carloads of bituminous coal consigned to Waltham dealers and factories has been seized by the Railroad Administration. The factories report that there is no acute shortage as a result of the seizure.

No announcement was made by the Administration as to what disposition will be made of the seizure. The cars were placed on a siding at Silverdale immediately upon their arrival here.

ACCUSE LAWRENCE MAN OF $70 THEFT FROM BANK

Lawrence, Nov. 21.—Elmer E. Davis, twenty-four years old, of No. 44 Lawrence street, has been arrested, charged with the larceny of $70 from the Broadway Savings Bank, the money being the property of E. Davis of this city. Davis claimed a letter addressed to E. Davis and which contained a check for the money, which, it is alleged, he cashed at the Broadway Savings Bank.

The check was from the Canadian government on the Bank of Montreal, dated August 27, and was a war gratuity intended for Davis, who was a former Canadian soldier. Davis, the police say, has admitted his guilt.

NUXATED IRON

For Red Blood, Strength and Endurance

THINK of the strong, healthy men and women you know—people who are prominent and who are doing things worth while, and you will find that they usually possess remarkable force, vim and energy—the kind that simply brim over when the blood is filled with iron. Iron is red-blood food—it helps put strength and energy into the veins of men and roses into the cheeks of women.

Nuxated Iron, by enriching the blood and creating new blood cells, strengthens the nerves, rebuilds the weakened tissues and helps to insill renewed energy and endurance into the whole system.

If people would only keep their blood filled with strength-giving iron by taking Nuxated Iron when they feel weak, run-down and nervous, they might readily build up their red-blood corpuscles and quickly become stronger and healthier in every way. Unlike the older inorganic products, it is easily assimilated, does not irritate the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. Nuxated Iron often increases the strength and endurance of weak, delicate people in two weeks' time. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

Overcoats

But the Eight Great Kennedy Stores, while affected by this shortage, are undoubtedly better supplied with good overcoats than any other retail establishment in New England—or anywhere else, for that matter. The best makers, appreciating our tremendous outlet, our big orders and cash payments, are gladly doing everything possible to keep us supplied with overcoats, and shipments are arriving almost daily.

You might not think, from the papers, that overcoats were very scarce. Some kinds are not, but the good ones are. It's the good kind that we deal in exclusively.

So if you want a good overcoat (as most men do) and don't want to pay all out-doors for it (as most men don't), this Live Store is the place to come to.

The coats we're selling today were contracted for long before prices started their latest attempt at a new altitude record, and as we bought them, so are we selling them.

ROBINSON BOXES JOE EAGAN AT C. A. CLUB

Bobby Dyson to Mingle with Willie Spencer in Marlboro Bout

By JACK CONWAY
It will be a battle of left hands when George Robinson of Cambridge and Joe Eagan, Rochester middleweight, meet in a twelve round bout at the Commercial club tonight.

There was once a time when Eagan was considered to have the best left hand in the boxing game. It was very natural that Don Eagan Joseph was picked to win over Robinson when these worthies met at the Commercial club last summer.

For these rounds it looked as though Eagan was going to have his party to make. As Robinson got started and put on a convincing left hand, it was not long before Eagan was offering the prize to Robinson.

KILONIS BEATS KETONEN AND RETAINS HIS TITLE

John Kilonis, middleweight champion catch-as-catch-can wrestler, defeated Walter Ketonen the champion in a 10th round at the Grand Theatre.

Kilonis took two of the three falls in his prize over a contest as has been witnessed here. Once a flash out of a corner was seen, in the first bout, when Kilonis, in a hammer-blow, and arm-locks on Kilonis and two minutes elapsed from the time the bout started to the end of the first fall, when Kilonis was securely pinned to the canvas.

The second bout was a protracted session. Kilonis gained the fall with a erect body lift and body hold in 11 minutes and 20 seconds. In dropping Ketonen to the mat, Kilonis gained a head-stand and a crowd held at the third fall and defeated Kilonis in 11 minutes and 20 seconds.

In the opening round for the first of the city and the town of Boston, Kilonis wrestled in a class of 150 lbs. and won by a score of 10 to 0.

QUIET DAY FOR HARVARD GRID WARRIORS

Men Practice Punting and Have Short Signal Drill at Essex County Club

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.
Manchester, Nov. 21.—The harmonious Harvard football team called early today after having slept soundly in the comfortable Essex County Club. The players did not even engage in a pillow fight. They awoke at 7:15 and immediately played into grapefruit, cereal, toast and beefsteak. These football players certainly eat well. A big meal was served before the clubhouse after breakfast and a number of the players who had to report for class work were whisked to Cambridge. Four of the players brought their golf clubs and "daisy" Wagon, the club professional, had sets of sticks for other members of the delegation who tried the course. The coaches talked to the players about formations and later the team ran through signals and had a short punting practice. None of the members of the squad appear worried over the game. The Essex County Club was built to rest in, anyway. It would be hard to construct a more comfortable house or to locate it in a quieter spot. Harvard men are delighted with it and declare it is just the right sort of place for the team to spend the last few hours before being sent into the whirl of the great stadium episode. There was a rush for today's American, as the men were anxious to read the latest news from the Belmont Spring Club, where Yale is camped. Manchester people want about their business today without regard for the distinguished party at the Essex Club. It did not appear as if any who had arrived at the hotel in order to get a view of the famous Eddie Egan, the Harvard brother, Captain Jimmy Ray or, last but not least, the coach.

"TWO AND THIRTY" PUTTING THE NEXT ONE OVER WITH "BUGS" DAIR

YALE coaches haven't any tougher job than a bowler trying to grab a spare off a seven-pin split.

THAT third league is going good so far. The receipts just balance the expenditures. WHEN it comes to dishing out the All-American honors, Center College will be treated like the American Stomach at the English pre-dinner tournament. Next exhibition will be the Yanks, but pay no attention to them folk, has they have a lot of hot blooming hactobats. DOUBTLESS, some rascal on the Center College outfit may put a semi-pro and unit to mingle with a nice, clean semi-amateur. PRIZE EGG of the war was the Washington major who put his boots in front of an electric fan to get 'em weather beaten. FIFTY THOUSAND gallons of near beer was dumped in the Mississippi. They spoiled the land. Now they're trying to spoil the sea. SORRY the Duke of Wales couldn't have arrived before the Eighteenth Amendment and seen us at our best.

NOW that prices are normal again, the Roils-Royce has sunk to ten thousand buttons a copy. Folks who were unable to get one because of the war will be glad to know that the Roils is within reach of any workman who doesn't hog when he hears the horn. The Roils is an all-year car. That's what the judge gives you if you try to grab one. CAP HURTON is still after Dan Johnson. He figures that Dan is one for the old rag bag. Dan ought to know better than to stir up a germ who keeps his grouch in a thornless bottle where it can't cool off. YALE, Harvard and Princeton don't count early season defeats. The Big Three is the only kind of fruit that falls before it's ripe. CONSENSUS of opinion is that a husband is a guy who kisses his wife without taking the clear out of his mouth. COLUMBIA coaches are in a tough fix with no captain to blame it on. THAT HURLEY was knocked out three nights in succession. If the ring was a bass drum, that would be a fine stick.

B. U. SOPHOMORE GIRLS FIVE BEATS JUNIORS. Sophomore girls opened up the football season at the College of Arts of Boston University by beating the juniors, 19-16, in the first game. The 1922 and 1921 men were on hand in full force to cheer the junior athletes. The freshmen routed the juniors 19-16. New Haven players of N.Y. who played on the

YALE PLAYERS PRACTICE IN STADIUM

Eli Kickers Test Atmospheric Conditions in Harvard Stronghold

THE Blue eleven of Yale, in another reconstructed football team, had its first practice in the Harvard Stadium this morning. The athletes entered from the Belmont Spring Country Club, where they spent the night, to the Cambridge horsehoe. The drill for the day merely consisted of signals, and kicking, to give the harve a chance to get accustomed to the lights and winds that prevail in the "Crimson stronghold."

As announced previously, the team lined up, with Braden in the back field, and not on the side lines because of injuries. Unless something happens, his aim will start the game tomorrow at fullback, and will give the Harvard line plenty to worry about. He is one of the real players, and has recovered from the injuries that kept him a spectator the greater part of the year. The New Haven athletes, after the practice were given a holiday, and most of them took auto trips. All hands returned to the clubhouse for dinner, and spent the evening and night there. The squad will leave the Belmont Spring Club about noon tomorrow for the stadium and an applause of all who have been lucky enough to catch a glimpse of the valuable past-boards continue to bring record game wherever they can be found. Many a fan is willing to pay, but can't find one who will let him. Coach Harlow came to Boston in advance of the team, but joined them in the country. His father, who is a resident of Winthrop Highlands, by the way, spent the past week at New Haven and is one of the "Yale" men.

New Hampshire State College basketball team, started for the Junior. Good team work was displayed by Keller MacCormen of Middlebury, and Francis Laugher of Waterville, forwards for the 1922 team.

Boston Mecca for Yale Student Body

New Haven, Nov. 21.—For Yale men of every class, creed and condition of life and for New Haven men whose passport is "football," all roads today lead to Boston. Some went by the Shore Line; others by the Springfield route, a few hundred took to the turnpikes in their automobiles, and there were rumors of a few almighty parties, but Boston was their destination, and the Yale-Harvard gridiron match Saturday at Soldiers Field was their objective. Every thorough train was run to sections and was loaded to its capacity.

The Yale campus was deserted by noon, the faculty having announced that the last cutting remarks would be all leave and no work the next day. The Yale men will join them there tomorrow, and the Harvard delegation. This offer is level to the core, as far as it goes, a season with a game as Yale athletes are concerned, all attention has been given to the "LITTLE HUNTING." Little hunting. Setting was light as a November afternoon because Yale cash was accepted by the novelists as a result of the game last Saturday. The game plays which are as

Somerville-Everett Contest Saturday's 2d Big Game

Boston tomorrow will be crowded with football fans from all over the country for the big game at the stadium. Many of these fans have traveled to Boston trusting to secure Harvard-Yale tickets and those disappointed will have to turn to some other contest.

Added from the game is the stadium the only contest of importance is the one at Braves Field between the Everett and Somerville High School teams, and this game should draw one of the biggest crowds at a school event this season. Somerville High, to win the suburban League championship, must go through the remainder of the season without a defeat. A loss tomorrow would put the team one point behind the Cambridge Latin, which has lost but one game.

"Who is the real leader of the real opposition in New York to the League of Nations indeed, the real leader in the whole country? It is William Randolph Hearst, who is using all the power of his newspapers from the Atlantic to the Pacific to keep America from entering the League of Nations."—Herbert S. Houston, Founder and Vice-President of the League to Enforce Peace.

Thanks Be to God, This Nation Has Indeed Had a New Birth of Freedom

The treaty is dead!

Thanks and congratulations and felicitations!

Thanks to God, who rules the affairs of peoples and directs the destinies of nations.

Congratulations to the senators who have so manfully and victoriously fought the long and hard fight for America. Well done, good and faithful servants of the people!

Felicitations to all of you, countrymen, who have watched with much anxiety the long struggle, at first so seemingly hopeless, now so greatly crowned with triumph.

These are great days for the republic—glorious, gallant, splendid, wonderful days!

They will live forever in the annals of the American people.

We speak with a full heart and to celebrate only the victory of Americanism.

We seek no meed of personal applause, and shall certainly not exploit the leadership which it was the glad privilege and, we hope, the well discharged duty of the Hearst papers to give to the cause of the republic.

A month ago, in a public meeting, Mr. Herbert S. Houston, founder and vice-president of the League to Enforce Peace, said:

"Who is the real leader of the real opposition in New York to the League of Nations—indeed, the real leader in the whole country? It is William Randolph Hearst, who is using all the power of his newspapers from the Atlantic to the Pacific to keep America from entering the League of Nations."

Mr. Houston intended these words to be denunciations.

We accept them as the highest praise.

But this is no victory of any one man, or of any one newspaper, or of any association of newspapers.

This is a great and wonderful victory of the thinking and patriotic men and women of America, won against the forces of foreign propagandists and the betrayers of the traditions, principles and institutions of American freedom and American individual sovereignty and independence among the nations of the earth.

The longer the covenants of the league and the terms of the treaty were discussed, and the more they were analyzed and debated, the more the people came to distrust and fear them and condemn them.

The wisdom of our great dead, expressed in words and deeds, has combined with the wisdom of the living to preserve our independence and our institutions, thus justifying and emphasizing the striking declaration of Edmund Burke, that American civilization itself "is a triple contract between the noble dead, the living and the unborn."

The victory for Americanism, American principles, American traditions, American independence, has been achieved after the longest and fullest debate any treaty ever had in the Senate. The people were and are strongly in favor of co-operation between nations to preserve peace.

But the League of Nations which the Senate and the country has rejected, and which the voters of the country would reject by an overwhelming majority in any referendum, is the secret control of world business and a dividing up of world territory—an international intrigue woven into a peace treaty by secret diplomacy, accepted and condoned by President Wilson in Paris, calling itself a League of Nations, but in reality a league of politicians, making hypocritical high professions of virtue, but doing acts of treachery, wrong and injustice.

President Wilson undoubtedly will be grievously wounded in his feelings and disappointed in his ambitions by the Senate's final rejection of his treaty.

He knows that the country has rejected, upon full consideration, his appeal to it to compel the Senate to carry out his personal secret engagements.

He realizes, of course, that his treaty was killed by public discussion; that his tour to arouse the country against the Senate really aroused the country against the treaty, changing not less than six Democratic votes in the Senate, against all their party and personal inclinations, and forcing them from the highest sense of public duty to oppose the treaty.

President Wilson probably sincerely believes that a majority of the Senate and a majority of the people are wrong, and that he is right. Other Presidents and statesmen have made the same mistake, only to discover finally that the majority of the people were right and they themselves mistaken.

Secretary of State John Hay likewise firmly believed that he was right in negotiating the first Hay-Pauncefote treaty for the Panama Canal.

That treaty, formulated by shrewd British diplomats, forbade the United States to build forts or any other permanent defenses for the canal. The Hearst papers bitterly opposed this treaty and said:

"Better no canal than an undefended canal!"

They said that any Isthmian canal without impregnable fortresses would be seized by any enemy having naval forces superior to our own and thus make concentration of our own fleet from the Atlantic to the Pacific, or from the Pacific to the Atlantic impossible.

Secretary Hay regarded the defeat of this treaty, the work of two years' negotiation, as encompassing his life failure as a statesman. He tendered his resignation to President McKinley. But the collective wisdom of the Senate was more far-seeing even than the patriotic McKinley.

The rejected treaty was re-written, and a year later ratified. This time it was an AMERICAN treaty permitting the fortification and the American domination of the canal.

The biographer of John Hay, Mr. Thayer, twelve years later, revealed for the first time that Mr. Hay himself lived to realize his great mistake. The Hearst papers, which he had publicly denounced as "outrageous calumnies," he afterward said WERE RIGHT. He told his biographer, Mr. Thayer, that he was glad the first Hay-Pauncefote was beaten.

A great victory for true Americanism was won with the aid of the Hearst papers when the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was rejected. Another and still greater victory was won when the present treaty, with its infinitely more disastrous abandonment of American principles and surrender of American independence, was laid to rest.

Fifty-six years ago, on the nineteenth day of November, 1863, Abraham Lincoln, standing upon that holy ground, hard by Gettysburg's famous field, where sleep the men who there died that the republic might live, spoke these memorable words:

"It is, rather, for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth."

It is altogether fitting that the great victory in the Senate Chamber shall have occurred upon the exact anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's high and splendid declaration of the principles of American government and American liberty.

Upon the nineteenth day of this present month of November this nation, under God, has indeed had a new birth of freedom, has indeed reaffirmed to all mankind that within its borders, at least, government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth.

Another Gettysburg battle has been fought.

Another Gettysburg battle has been won.

Let us soberly thank God for the civic courage and the civic steadfastness of those representatives of the people who have won in the Senate of the United States this momentous battle against the pernicious theory of irresponsible government by an autocratic executive and his irresponsible appointees and the fatal doctrine of American entanglement in the wretched politics and criminal wars of Europe's governing and exploiting dynasties and classes.

We should never forget the brave men who fought and won this civic war for the maintenance of our traditions and our free institutions and the perpetuity of the sovereignty and independence of the republic.

They deserve to live in history, and we doubt not that they will live in history, in company of Washington, with Jefferson, with Monroe, with Lincoln and all those lesser but not less devoted and patriotic Americans who, in every period of our national life, have manfully stood for the ideals of the fathers and for the protection and the maintenance and the defence of our institutions of orderly liberty and of government based upon and conducted with the consent and the will of the sovereign people.

This generation, at least, will bear no more of the servile and abominable preachments that the President of the United States is the ruler of the American people, that the representatives of the people in the Congress of the United States must not presume to cross a "u" or dot an "i" in any of the ukases which issue from the White House.

That servile doctrine, which has disgraced the lips of so many men and the pages of so many journals, will not offend the ears of upstanding Americans again in this generation.

We who now occupy the stage have again carried high the torch of constitutional liberty, and will hand it undimmed to those who come after us.

The trust that the mighty dead transmitted to us has been nobly fulfilled.

We need not be ashamed to read the proclamation of our famous Declaration, the mandates and inhibitions of our wonderful Constitution, the propositions of our noble bill of rights, the specific practicalities and splendid ideals of that bright succession of American Presidents which begins with the name of Washington and ends with the name of Theodore Roosevelt.

The day of our annual Thanks giving approaches. That, too, is a fitting incident. Let us approach whatever altar it is the wont of each of us to reverence and there gratefully thank the God who sheltered our fathers and guided their steps, who has, in every faithful emergency, led us in safe and right paths; and who has again strengthened the hands of our servants to preserve our liberties and our independence and to strike down and trample under foot the most dangerous and most formidable assault ever made upon the freedom of the American people and the sovereignty of the American republic.

Once again our own flag floats alone, and undiminished by the company of other banners, above our American land.

Once more true American hearts beat high with pride as the ensign of the republic streams its bright folds upon the winds of America.

Once more true men and women can uncover their heads before that dear flag and proudly say:

"Thank God, I am an American!"

Unwillingness to Benefit by Experience

That was certainly not a reassuring statement which General Mitchell, chief of training in the air service, made before the American Flying Club the other evening, when he said:

"At present our air service is equipped with obsolete machines of foreign design and American construction or of foreign design and foreign construction, and we are at the mercy of foreign manufacturers."

If we want to use tomorrow with a first class power we should have to buy airplanes from England, France or Germany, because we neither have them nor can produce them quickly enough."

The unanimous hope is that we shall not go to war tomorrow with any power. But our experience with aircraft production in our latest war ought to teach the supreme and wasteful folly of neglecting preparation for our next war until after it shall have come to pass.

Now can we be sure in our next war that it will be possible for us to draw upon any nation in Europe for the military weapons and supplies which, in our negligence, we shall lack.

But the spirit indicated in our neglect of aeronautics so soon after the military importance has been so strikingly demonstrated is not the spirit which will keep us alert or prepared. It is rather a direct invitation to trouble.

It took us a long time to get into the war. It's taking long to get out.

Lodge asked the Senate to call the war off. Identify the peace league corpse and give it decent burial before adjourning. But the Senate would not. It wants to mourn a little more over the intervening remains, the six British votes to one American, the article ten, that would send control of United States Army and treasury across the ocean, and the other features of the dear departed.

Anyhow, it is departed. It is dead, and that is something. We have not finished making peace with Germany. On the other hand, the country has refused to make an international joint of itself, and it should congratulate itself, of Missouri, Borah, Johnson, of California, who powerfully enlisted public opinion, and other fighters.

A silver dollar is worth five cents more than a gold dollar. William J. Bryan, the silver king, in a jocular mood at Hot Springs, sends this question:

"Are the New York financiers living up to their claims of honesty that they made so vociferously in 1897? Or are they paying their debts in a cheap gold dollar?"

They are still promising to pay in gold, which is as near as any body comes to paying in gold. But they have never been paying or promising to pay in fifty-cent silver dollars during all the years that the silver dollars were worth fifty cents or less. Give the poor snailers credit for that. If the silver dollar has been actually kept at par as Mr. Bryan suggested, and the silver mines worked to capacity on that basis, the silver dollar would probably be "worth" now about twenty-five cents.

A ninety-five cent gold dollar is better than a twenty-five cent silver dollar.

The Duke of Tarifa "has organized a grand hunt in honor of King Alfonso on his estate, well stocked with wild boar and other game."

So says the Associated Press. You might think these grand hunts would make monarchs a little generous after the grand hunt for the czar recently organized in Russia.

Spain is, at best, a dangerous hunting ground for royalty.

The white-breasted Algonquin might recall that on the 16th of July long ago, when the Battle was torn down, Louis XVI. was out shooting, had poor luck and marked in his diary "nothing." It was mistaken; it was one of the greatest hunting days ever started in France.

War, and as it is, brings permanent improvement. British

The Dear Departed Mr. Bryan's Question

Dangerous Hunting Farewell, Foc'sle

ships now come to port minus the old forecastle, the crowded, dirty, unventilated sleeping quarters, of which you might have said, copying Doctor Johnson, that it had all the disadvantages of being unsafe.

New merchant ships provide for each couple of sailors a room to themselves, one man sleeping in it while the other is on duty. The war has made progress, and that common myth, even common sailors, must have consideration.

Doctor Elmer, who lives near Philadelphia, says he is the American Robin Hood, the best surviving shot with bow and arrow. He was fined $15.00 for shooting an arrow into a hen. This was his reward, taking the arrow to the creature and put her out of misery, was fined for cruelty.

We have made progress since Cherry Chase and "Little John" also since the days when "gentle men" amused themselves shooting at live pigeons.

THE HABIT OF KISSING BABIES

Get out of the habit of kissing your friends' babies. Parents of today, having made a study of the physical well-being of the babies, are rightly opposed to their being kissed.

Toys for babies? Not when you know how many men and women of the present are afflicted with some easily transmitted disease.

The time has gone by when a mother feels hurt if interest and appreciation of her offspring does not manifest itself in kisses and caresses. You will offend more knowledge by touching your friend's baby than you will by keeping your hands and lips off.

JUST CRAZY OVER THE BOYS

Look here, little Miss, you are paying too much attention to what the boys think of you and what "he said" and what "she said" instead of digging into that arithmetic lesson.

If you can just skin through it matters little to you that you have wasted so much time prinking before the glass, twisting and untwisting your hair, trying the effect of some new kind of smirk which you have seen the girls at "H" do.

And so you go on, a disappointment to your parents, who are sacrificing much to get you the best possible education.

Some of your would-be friends will say it is not possible to put old heads on young shoulders, but some young heads have been known to possess a grain or an atom of sense.

This spirit of sense if appealed to might develop wonderfully.

Silly stanzas won't get you anywhere you want to go, neither will strong, misleading stories of the side glances you have been practicing. Be wholesome, clean, sweet and sincere and then industrious, and you won't have to be mortified by hearing the opinion advanced that all that hinders your progress is that you are "so-crazy," and the from the boys at that.
